Mapping Out Our Week

Reading: Reading Workshop

In reading, we are starting to look at the strategy of questioning. We are stressing that good readers ask questions before, during, and after reading in order to better comprehend a story. The questions we will focus on this week are called "right there" or "think and search".

Writing: Writing Workshop

In writing, we have been working on writing using a variety of leads. Authors need to write good leads so that their audience is excited to continue reading the stories. We will continue learning about six different types of leads and practicing writing each one.

Math: Unit 3 – Place Value/Addition

Unit 3 will begin this week as we review place value and addition strategies. Throughout this unit, students will learn about different types of strategies for addition and subtraction; however, they are encouraged to choose the one with which they are consistently successful!

Science: Soil and Rocks

This week, we will finish learning about natural resources and review our soil/rocks concepts. Students will be taking a quiz on this unit next Thursday. We will be switching back to social studies this week as well.
